Eartha Kitt's memoir, Dancing With the Moon, is a thought-provoking and inspiring account of her journey of self-discovery and transformation through dance.

Kitt was born in South Carolina in 1927. She began dancing at an early age, and by the time she was a teenager, she was performing in nightclubs and on Broadway. In the 1950s, she became a star on the international stage, appearing in films such as "Anna Lucasta" and "St. Louis Blues."

Despite her success, Kitt's life was often marked by challenges. She faced racism and discrimination throughout her career, and she was also the victim of sexual abuse. However, through it all, dance remained a constant source of strength and inspiration for her.

In Dancing With the Moon, Kitt writes about how dance helped her to overcome her personal challenges and to find her own voice. She also shares her insights into the power of dance to heal, transform, and empower.

Kitt's memoir is a powerful and moving story of one woman's journey of self-discovery and transformation. It is a must-read for anyone who is interested in the power of dance or who is looking for inspiration to overcome their own challenges.
